

A Hoppé photograph at the London Stock Exchange, 1937.

Chin Up, Your Majesty

12 The premier British celebrity photographer of his time, Emil Otto Hoppé photographed King George V and Mussolini, Mary Pickford and Marlene Dietrich. Hoppé captured life in London from 1910 to 1945, a period when the city crept away from its Dickensian past to become a modern, postwar metropolis. Revisit a city in transition at "Hoppé's London," at the Michael Hoppen Gallery. (9/12-10/7.)